At Cornell

Cornell's Scientific Computing Training Series begins Feb. 6

Webinar topics include AI and Machine Learning, Generative AI, Python, and R. Sponsored by the Center for Advanced Computing (CAC) and Weill Cornell Medicine's Scientific Computing Unit, ITS, and Clinical and Translational Science Center. Registration is open now.

Cornell Center for Social Sciences Workshops

CCSS offers workshops on topics including data processing, replication, machine learning, and qualitative analysis. Learn more and register.

Data & Donuts Discussion Series

Spring Semester 2024 | Thursdays 9:30-10:30am | Mann Library Rm 100

Become a better data steward with Cornell Data Services! Join us for a weekly informal discussion series to work our way through the data lifecycle over donuts. From the planning stages of a research project, through closeout and data archiving, we will discuss best practices and point to resources on campus and beyond. There will be time for open conversation, questions, skill-building, and troubleshooting. Learn more and register.

Love Data Week February 12-16

A week of workshops and tabling across campus focused on data access, analysis, discovery, management, sharing, and preservation sponsored by Cornell University Library and Cornell Data Services.

Douglass Day 2024

A Celebration of the Legacy of Frederick Douglass and Transcribe-a-thon for Black History
Wednesday, Feb 14 | Noon – 3pm, Drop in any time | Olin Library Room 107

This year's Douglass Day transcribe-a-thon will feature the Frederick Douglass Papers: General Correspondence \(1841-1912\), housed at the Library of Congress. You will transcribe pages from the collection, uncover details about Douglass' life and make them available to all. We'll also enjoy birthday cake, music, and a good time! Presented by Cornell University Library's Digital Scholarship Services and the John Henrik Clarke Africana Library.
